CERTIFICATE IS ON WAY

Colby May Issue Order While Court Deliberates Its Jurisdiction.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—The anti-suffrage fight against the nineteenth amendment was transferred to Washington today when a suit to enjoin Secretary of State Colby from proclaiming the amendment was filed in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Justice Siddons, of the district court, was asked to issue a rule for Secretary of State Colby to show cause why such an injunction should not be granted. Siddons stated he would issue such a rule after arguments had been advanced to show that he had jurisdiction.

Charles S. Fairchild, head of the American constitutional league, who entered the plea, said he would be prepared to offer such arguments late today or tomorrow.

Meanwhile, there is no obstacle in the way of Colby's promulgating the suffrage amendment, which he expects to do as soon as Tennessee's certificate that the state has ratified, reaches him.

This certification is now in the mails.

Fairchild asked for the injunction on the ground that the Tennessee legislature in ratifying the amendment violated the state constitutional provision that the election of a legislature must intervene between the time an amendment is submitted and the time it is ratified.

The claim was also set up that Governor Roberts of Tennessee, violated an injunction secured there to restrain him from certifying ratification of the amendment to the Washington government.

This is the second injunction Fairchild has sought. He secured a temporary injunction in his first suit, but this was later vacated and the suit was carried to the court of appeals where it is now pending.

New York.—The International Paper company announced today it will make contracts for 1921 for print paper only on the basis of eighty per cent of the allotment for the current year.

In announcing the 20 per cent reduction in supply, it was said fuel cars and pulp wood will be scarce during the coming year and it was not believed the normal output could be maintained.

Insurgents Still Resting
Decatur, Ala.—The traveling "insurgents" of the Tennessee legislature who are protesting the action of the state body in ratifying suffrage, were still feasting on southern hospitality today.

In his speech at Athens, Representative Hall, leader of the legislators, attacked the Susan B. Anthony amendment as an outrage to the union of indestructible states and prophesied the defeat of suffrage.

Bethlehem Motors Corporation

In Difficulty Because of Lack of Cash.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—A receiver has been appointed in the Philadelphia United States district court for the Bethlehem Motors corporation, with plants at Allentown and Portsville, Pa., according to announcement of the Bow Jones Wall street ticker agency, here today.

The announcement stated that Clinton Woods, who has been general manager of the corporation, was appointed receiver. He was authorized to continue business until further orders of the court.

The action was based on a bill in equity brought by Keck & Brothers of Allentown, creditors for lumber valued at $25,000, according to the announcement.

The difficulties of the company were due to insufficient working capital and lack of cash to meet maturing obligations. It was stated today.

It was alleged by counsel for both creditors and the corporation that it is solvent, having assets of $4,300,000 and liabilities amounting to $3,000,000. About $1,000,000 is owed banks in New York, Boston and Chicago, according to the report and $1,500,000 of this amount is unsecured.

Merchandise creditors' claims amounted to $600,000, it was said.

Premier and His Cabinet Are Leaders.

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—Lord Mayor MacSwiney, of Cork, hunger striking in Brixton prison, was sinking rapidly this evening. His wife, who has given her consent to his refusing to eat until death releases him, planned to remain at his bedside tonight.

"He cannot last much longer," she said, as she left the prison for a few moments this afternoon.

"He is unable to speak now," the lady mayoress was saying on collapse.

By United Press Leased Wire
Lucerne, Switzerland.—The British government will not accept Lord Mayor MacSwiney from the rule that Irish hunger strikers must be permitted to starve if they refuse to eat.

Premier Lloyd George declared today in a cablegram to MacSwiney's sister.

"I regret to hear of the pain inflicted on you by your brother's determination to starve, but it is impossible for the government to make an exception in his case," the message said.

London.—Sinn Fein officials, who have never failed to carry out the sentences imposed by their "courts," will condemn to death all persons implicated in the expected death of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, they declared today.

While refusing to specify whom they regarded as responsible, the officials informed that Premier George and members of his cabinet "are liable."

Members of the Irish republican government and of the Cork corporation visited Brixton prison last night, where MacSwiney is near death from a two weeks' hunger strike.

He is serving a two year sentence for sedition.

"If MacSwiney dies, we will consider it murder," one of the Sinn Fein said, the others concurring.

"The Sinn Fein courts will try all persons implicated. They will be sentenced to death if found guilty of aiding or abetting the lord mayor's murder. The sentences will be carried out, no matter how high the officials involved. Presence of the accused in court is not necessary."

Mary MacSwiney, sister of the lord mayor, has telegraphed Lord George declaring that her brother's relatives and the people of Ireland will hold him responsible in the event of his death.

The lady mayoress visited her husband last night. MacSwiney, who was sinking rapidly and nearing unconsciousness, asked that he be allowed to "take a long look at her, as I may not see you the next time."

"Terence was terribly weak and his eyes were clouded but he told me he would not regret death if it were helpful to Ireland," Mrs. MacSwiney told reporters.

"He said he grieved for me, but I told him I would never be married again if I had not known he was not a coward. I love him for his politics and his loyalty to Ireland."

A thousand former soldiers gathered outside the prison last night and staged a demonstration for MacSwiney's release.

AMERICAN WOMEN WIN
WORLD SWIMMING MEET

Antwerp.—Ethelda Bleibtrey, of the women's swimming association of America, today won the 100 meter swim for women at the olympic games and established a new world's record of 1:13.35.

Irene Guss, of Philadelphia, was second, and Mrs. Frances Cowell, of San Francisco, third.

Malmroth, of Sweden, won the four hundred meter breast stroke swimming race, with Hennig, of Sweden, second; Altonson, of Finland, third; and Howell, America, fourth.

WORLD TRIBUNAL PLANNED

Hughes Declares G. O. P. Nominee Will Listen to Advice of Friends.

By United Press Leased Wire
Marion, Ohio.—The United States would rather cultivate opportunities in the friendly soil of the new world than chase a phantom amid the enmities and rivalries of the old," Senator Warren G. Harding declared today in his speech from the front porch to members of the Wyandotte county, Ohio, delegation.

Nobody has a thought of American aloofness to the world but our sphere lies in our own national partnership in the western continent and with the Pan-American countries, Harding said.

"I require no demonizing to promote these mutual trade interests and friendships in the frank spirit of continuous cooperation," Harding added.

"Let me assure you of one thing. In the nation's return to republican control will be outstanding assurance—there will be no surrender of inspiring nationality for paralyzing internationalism. Ours shall continue to be the United States of America, free to exercise American conscience and perform a free people's part for ourselves, for humanity and for justice everywhere."

More Women Delegates
Harding reviewed the war record of the republican party when it was in the minority in congress, "as the party kept faith in, and as it justified that vote of confidence in 1918, so it will continue to do so in the days to come."

Harding took especial notice of the larger proportion of women today's delegation, declaring it was significant and "becoming" that they attended.

Had it not been for the republican congress' efforts to reduce appropriations, the government would be facing deficit of over one billion, four hundred million dollars instead of a surplus of one billion one hundred million dollars, Harding said.

Wants World Court
A tribunal of international justice will be established should Harding be elected president, Charles E. Hughes declared today after a conference with the nominee.

Hughes was republican candidate in 1916. He came here to consult with Harding on international questions.

"It is hardly necessary for me to say that I shall earnestly support Senator Harding," Hughes said.

"He has complete familiarity with the problems of federal administration and we can feel assured that he will maintain the highest standards in government."

"We cannot afford to have a Tammanyized federal government. The nomination of Governor Cox was brought about by the skillful and determined effort of local democratic bosses who represent the most baneful influence in our political life."

Will Seek Counsel
"Senator Harding has a genius for cooperation. We want extensive leadership but we want to put an end to the attempts, sometimes obvious, sometimes subtle, to create an autocracy of the executive. Senator Harding will be his own master but he will really seek counsel and not simply talk about it."

"I believe also that Senator Harding's election will afford the surest way to securing our proper relation to international cooperation."

RAILROADS ARE DISCUSSED
IN ADDRESS BY GOV. COX

By United Press Leased Wire
Princeton, Ind.—No question is more important than the rehabilitation of the railroads, Gov. James M. Cox declared here today in a speech before a big southern Indiana democratic rally.

Cox declared that the welfare of business as well as the general public was directly related to the railroad problem.

"During the long reign of the reactionary policy," the governor said, "too many of the railroad systems were part of a political organization and personal exploitation and stock jobbing operations prevented intensive interest in the public welfare which was essential."

"It now behooves the government and the public to help in the establishment of efficiency both in rolling stock and operation."

Referring to the miners' disputes in this section, Cox said he believed the conditions of the railroads was largely responsible. He pointed out because of the scarcity of cars, the miners have been able to work only part of the time and consequently have been forced to demand higher pay. This in turn caused higher coal prices, he said.

Washington.—Higher freight and passenger rates go into effect on American railroads at midnight tonight.

Higher rates for passengers and freight, carried on Great Lakes and coastwise vessels, may be put into effect at the same time, if ship owners desire. These rates, granted by the shipping board yesterday, may be held up, however, until January 1, 1921.

It was estimated by competent officials that the new rail freight rates will cost the nation $4,100,000 per day, which will be reflected in the prices of commodities.

The new passenger rates which are an increase of 20 per cent over old ones, will bring to the railroads about $20,000,000 a month and will be paid directly at least by the more than 100,000,000 persons who ride on the roads each month, according to latest figures available at the interstate commerce commission.

Many of these passengers will also pay to the roads increased pullman car charges and higher rates for their excess baggage.

Government officials and W. Jett Lauck, an economist, employed by the railroad brotherhoods, insist that the increased bill the public must pay for freight should not result in any appreciable increase in the price of commodities. Any attempt to increase prices on this ground will be closely watched by the department of justice.

No Effect in Wisconsin
Milwaukee, Wis.—Intrastate passenger and pullman rates in Wisconsin are not affected by the increase recently granted by the interstate commerce commission, which becomes effective at midnight tonight.

Increased freight rates, however, are effective.

Carriers in Wisconsin have agreed to continue the three cent a mile passenger rate and present pullman rates, pending court action over increased rates. The Wisconsin railroad commission recently denied the application of the roads for the increase, holding that the state two cent a mile law is effective Sept. 1, when federal control of the roads ends. The roads have filed bills of complaint in federal court here seeking to restrain enforcement of the two cent a mile law. In the meantime, they are to continue the present rates as far as regards intrastate transportation. The new rates, however, will apply to interstate fares, it was said.

Increased rates granted steamship lines operating from Wisconsin points on the Great Lakes also become effective at midnight tonight.

Join the Fight Against
Rats and Mice

The rat is the worst animal pest in the world.
From its home among filth it visits dwellings, stores and warehouses in search of food—and it spoils ten times as much as it eats.

It spreads so much disease that it has caused more untimely deaths among human beings than all the wars of history.

If left alone it multiplies at an almost unbelievable rate.

You owe it to yourself and to your neighbors to catch and kill every rat—and every mouse—on your premises.

Campaign Plans.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—The campaign fund receipts of the democratic national committee to date are less than $100,000, Chairman White, of the committee, announced today.

Commenting on the statement of Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, that the republican fund totals only $244,352, while the receipts of the democratic national committee so far are less than $100,000, he said:

"The contributions have not been coming in rapidly and mostly in small amounts."

He added that the democratic organization had no budget and no district allotments.

White flatly denied the assertion of Representative Britten, of Illinois, that the British embassy had contributed to the democratic campaign fund.

$216,000 in New York
New York state has raised $216,000 for the national republican campaign, according to supplementary figures given out today by Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee.

Upham explained that, whereas in former years New York state had usually contributed 75 per cent of the total campaign funds, this year the various states will be contributing just as heavily, in proportion to their ability, as New York.

"The entire quota for New York state," continued Upham, "including funds for the national congressional and state campaigns is $2,000,000. Only one-third of this amount goes to the national committee."

Laughs at Charge
Commenting on Gov. Cox's charge that the national committee was raising a $15,000,000 fund, Upham declared that the entire contributions to the republican campaign this year, including national, congressional and state campaigns, as well as individual financial expenditures for local campaign clubs, bands, printing of pamphlets, etc., would be less than half that figure, would be less than half that figure.

Terre Haute, Ind.—A local case filed with closely typewritten pages that appear much like the daily balance sheets of a big bank, was the most important "baggage" of Governor James M. Cox as he traveled through Indiana today to Evansville and Princeton where he was to resume his stump battle.

In the case was most of the evidence which Cox says will prove his charge that the republicans are seeking a campaign fund of $15,000,000. A few highly prized tables of figures were carried by the governor in his inside coat pocket.

It is evident that the governor in his announced "expose" of republican finances at Pittsburgh Thursday night is planning to make public the alleged quotas of many districts. Much additional evidence has been received by him during the last two days, he said.

Cox was told that the quota of one county was $34,000. He pulled some papers from his pocket and said:

"No, it is $40,000. You know the republicans have been mighty careless in their financial campaign."

The candidate in his speeches today was not expected to go into any detail of his campaign fund information. He stated that he prefers to keep it all secret until the Pittsburgh address. The league of nations, agricultural and labor problems were expected to be his main topics.

Chicago.—England is ready to pay real money to aid the election of a democratic president, Congressman Fred Britten, Illinois, charged in a statement here today.

Britten's statement, issued through the republican national headquarters here, said the British parliament recently voted the British ambassador in Washington an "entertainment fund" of $27,500.

This fund already has found its way to the democratic national committee, Britten said, "where it will not be followed by ten times that amount should it be made evident that this new disciple of Wilson can win with money rather than honest issues."

Washington, D. C.—Poland's armies cannot halt their rout of the bolsheviks at the eastern frontier of the country as the United States desires, according to the belief expressed in official Polish circles today.

At the same time it was indicated at the state department that any major advance of Polish forces beyond their boundary as set by the peace treaty may prejudice her chances of obtaining food and other supplies which Prince Lubomirski, her minister here, has formally requested from this government.

While it was emphasized there was no attempt to forecast the attitude of Warsaw, it was stated in official Polish quarters that it would be "strategically impossible" for Poland's armies to halt as apparently suggested by this government unless an armistice is signed.

TRAINING SCHOOL TO OPEN AUGUST 30

Enrollment of More Than Fifty Expected in New London Normal.

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
New London—Judging from the increased enrollment this far at the Waupaca County Teachers Training School it is quite evident that there is return of interest on the part of young men and women in preparing for rural school teaching. It doubtless is due to the fact that school boards in the rural districts of the county are awakening to the fact that rural teachers are as deserving of fair salaries as city teachers are. Their preparation for teaching is practically the same and their work is even more difficult in assuming charge of all the grades. There are few districts in our county which are not planning to pay their teachers at least $100 per month. Principal Ellis Caley of the training school is receiving many inquiries from young people among them many high school graduates. There are already about fifty who have expressed their intention to enroll. The academic studies and domestic science will be in charge of Principal Caley and Miss Barrett while Miss Berg will teach pedagogy and supervise the practice work and the model school. The faculty members are the same as last year. Many homes in the city are paying a way for some of these entering to work for part or all of their board. The school will open August 30.

A Red Cross Nurse representing the Outagamie County chapter of the Red Cross will conduct a health tent at the Hortonville fair where children will be given a thorough examination. Parents are urged to attend and consult the nurse. Special emphasis will be placed on the proper feeding of children. The Red Cross Health tent as it will be known, will conduct a milk station where fresh milk will be sold at one cent a cup. Parents and teachers may here gain information on proper school lunches. The chapter is making an effort to secure a noted speaker on child health. The tent will be used as a rest room and first aid emergency tent. A Home Service desk will be found where ex-service men may have their problems solved. Any ex-service man who is unable to reach the general office at Appleton, may get assistance in such matters as application blanks for compensation, reinstatement of insurance, Victory medals and buttons, travel allowance, and arrears of pay etc. The ex-service men must be able to present their discharge papers.

SHIOCTON BOYS FIGURE IN MOTORCYCLE WRECK

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Shiocton—Andy Weber and Frank Tyler rode motorcycles met in a collision on River street in front of the drug store about one o'clock Sunday afternoon, wrecking both machines and throwing the boys to the pavement. Weber suffered a cut over his eye but was otherwise uninjured.

Tyler was thrown heavily and was rendered unconscious and was confined to his bed until Wednesday. The boys were going in opposite directions when the Tyler boy turned as if to swing around Weber's wheel hitting Tyler's machine broadside.

The Shiocton baseball team was defeated at Nichols Sunday, 20 to 2.

Wednesday afternoon about 30 automobiles carrying over 150 people from Seymour visited the village, boosting the Seymour fair. They had a land with them and made things lively. The fair is held this week and many people will attend from here.

GOVERNOR COX'S CAMPAIGN CHARGES

Governor Cox's charges that the Republican campaign organization has raised or is engaged in raising a huge fund running far into the millions for the "purchase of the presidency" are a development which assumes temporary and rather spectacular importance. The charges are vigorously denied by Senator Harding and are made light of by the Republican national committee, and with customary agility the subcommittee of the senate which has been investigating alleged extravagant use of money ever since the presidential primaries without results springs to the foreground and offers its services as arbitrator.

Governor Cox has thus far stood his ground in the face of the challenge to present his facts and declares that in a speech at Pittsburgh Thursday night he will prove the assertion that a "senatorial oligarchy" is out to buy the presidency. The governor is somewhat "stagey" in his statements on the subject, but of course extreme terms are applied to catch the popular imagination and sharpen interest in the incident.

If the Republican party, or either party, is raising abnormally large funds with which to influence the election the country wants to know it. There has been much talk about the part money was to play in this election for months past. There was without doubt an undue use of it in the state primaries last spring, but it was supposed the exposures at that time had had a restraining effect upon the politicians close to fountains of finance ready and anxious to pour forth their contents for the good of the country. Possibly Mr. Cox is right in his charge that the fountains have been unloosed and are gushing, and possibly too he has been over-zealous in his accusations. The people will suspend judgment of the controversy until the governor presents his case and until all parties concerned have been heard. We have a suspicion that after it is all over the country will know about as much as it did before, but this may be a prejudice based on the usual ending of campaign accusations.

On the other hand if Governor Cox can come through clean with real proof of his statements it will have a material effect upon the campaign, for the people are out of patience with the extravagant spending of money by politicians serving special interests, and that is where the bulk of the money comes from. The election of president must not be tainted as has been the election of some United States senators in recent years. The people will not tolerate any attempt to prostitute the American franchise to such purposes, and the party guilty of it, if anything of the kind is going on, will suffer badly. In the meantime let us await the evidence which Mr. Cox says he is prepared to make public.

AMERICAN MANNERS

Henry W. Nevison, an Englishman visiting this country, sends the Manchester Guardian two columns on American manners. He had expected to be received with rudeness and indifference from a rough and ill-mannered people; he found a consideration, a sensitiveness to the feelings of others and a solicitude to please such as he had never seen, except perhaps in India.

He was what his countrymen would call a "beastly foreigner," and yet when he asked his way on the street everyone within hearing "stopped dead still" to tell him, and when he was introduced to people they greeted him with cordial smiles, such as strangers do not get in Britain.

And he wonders why. Is it lingering Puritan tradition, or co-education and the spirit of democracy in the public schools, or a healthy climate, or good food, or a fine carelessness about time and business? He is puzzled.

It can't be early training, "because the children are so commonly what is called ill-bred. They persist and interrupt and whine. They whine like sick kittens. They seem never to have 'Hush' or 'Don't' said to them, and never to be told that 'little people are meant to be seen and not heard.'"

Mr. Nevison is evidently charmed and kindly, he appreciates democracy, and he is grateful for courtesies shown to him. But apparently he does not see that democracy begins at home and that even a whining child has as much right to kindness and courtesy as a foreign visitor.

If a man can stop dead still on the street to accommodate an interrupting foreigner why shouldn't he stop at home to answer his boy?

And the child who is treated with courtesy is not ill-bred, though he may well be annoying, for example is better than precept or coercion, and in the end it will give the sincere kindness that Mr. Nevison is so quick to see and admire.

To teach children that the small and weak should be seen and not heard is to teach them that the big and strong have a right to dominate, and when they grow up they will not forget it.

THE TEAM-WORKER

Every boy has been reading of the brilliant diamond career of Ray Chapman, the Cleveland shortstop who was killed by a swiftly thrown ball the other day, but without wishing to preach, we wonder whether some of the many have not missed the lesson in it.

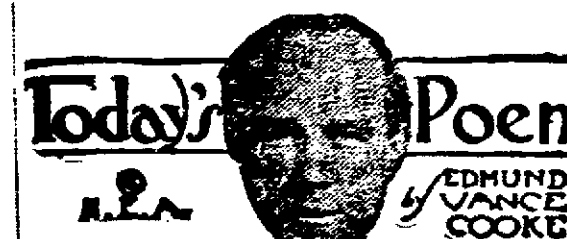

Ray Chapman made many errors. So does every one who does things. Honus Wagner, another great shortfielder, erred often. But both these men piled up errors against their record by going after balls that the average player wouldn't even try to get.

The ball was never too far away or coming too swiftly to be tried for. Many "impossibilities" these men turned into accomplishments. They were team-workers who gave all they had, regardless of their personal records, toward victory.

Chapman was second on his team's batting list—the sacrificer—Chapman's duty it was, first, of all, to advance the "other fellow"—to hit in such a way as to get the first runner down to second whether he himself was put out or not. Chapman was the leading sacrifice hitter of the league.

Down through the years Chapman sacrificed and team-worked his team to victory, never sulking, always cheerful, always optimistic, always praising the other fellow.

There is where the career of Ray Chapman, greatest shortstop in the American league and most popular man on his club, is of value to all. Every one can be a hard-driving, cheerful team-worker.

CATCHING COLD IN THE SKIN

Dear folks who have borne up patiently under my constant harping on the catching cold delusion, please do not turn away now. I wanna give the devil his due. When anybody steps on my toes I am always willing to acknowledge the corn.

On at least one occasion I have asserted with considerable unadvised emphasis that there is no such thing as taking cold in the popular sense of the words. Indeed, I have confidently suggested that there is no such thing as well a good many things which like to imagine them have. But on this cold question I have hotly maintained that the rest of the world is all wrong and I am all right—a peculiarity of mentality common to something like two-thirds of one per cent of our population. Now I wish to enter one or two exceptions to that sweeping assertion, having, however, that this will not be deemed to indicate that I am getting older.

As long ago as last April, I admitted without a quibble, here in this column, that chapping may be properly attributed to catching cold in the skin. That was the first time I ever publicly conceded so much to the fossils who persist in believing in taking cold in the chest. Chapping is a very superficial cold and never settles anywhere. So it gives the fossils little satisfaction.

Now, taking a step further, I am prepared to grant that chilblain is a cold a little more deeply settled in the skin, a disease state directly caused by exposure to cold or cold and wet combined and most common among persons too much coddled against such exposure.

Prostriben ears, nose, cheeks, fingers, toes or whole extremities may be fairly described as taking a bad cold.

Chronic habitues may recall the description I gave once of the German physician who sat on a park bench in the cold and wet to prove that one so takes cold and tried numerous other similar experiments on himself, with such disappointing results that he concluded there might be some doubt about the alleged dangers of exposure.

Well, another German investigator is apparently trying to strike back at this intrepid man. In Munich, medizinsche Wochenschrift for April 12, 1920, H. Schade appropriately named declares that the skin is the main defense against cold, though strangely enough, he says, are scarcely ever speak of taking cold in the skin. He then goes on to point out that the first effect of cold on the skin manifests itself on the vasomotor nerves which control the surface circulation. "We've known this in America for fifty years at least; but it usually takes that long for the German medical scientist to learn what we know here." Schade speaks of the stiff and doughy condition of the tissues after exposure to cold for a short time. From this he attempts to lead on to the notion that this stiff and doughy state affects the cells of the tissues and has to do with "catarrhal" conditions. Schade makes this jump in logic nimbly enough, but it isn't done that way in America. If we spring to anything here it is to arms.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cigar Fiend

My brother is a cigar fiend. If he hasn't a cigar to smoke as soon as he wakes up in the morning he is so cross we can't stay in the house with him. He will not try to break the habit, because a doctor said it would kill him to do so. (H. G. P.)

ANSWER.—Perhaps the doctor's judgment is warped by the tobacco habit. A man who smokes before noon is almost invariably an excessive smoker, and almost certainly injured by tobacco. Tobacco brings on fatal disease in many men; it is absurd to imagine that stopping its use could harm any one.

Immunity to Ivy Poisoning
Please republish the formula for immunization against the skin inflammation of poison ivy.

ANSWER.—Ten per cent tincture of poison ivy leaf, 15 drops; glycerin, 2 drams; syrup of orange, enough to make 3 oz.

Begin by taking one drop in half a glassful of water after each meal, and increase by one drop each successive dose, till thirty-drop doses are taken in about ten days. Then take a teaspoonful once a day for another week. After that a teaspoonful about twice a week throughout the season.

How to Whiten the Teeth
Please tell me how I can remove stains from my teeth. No amount of brushing seems to remove these dark stains. (H. S. E.)

ANSWER.—Greenish stains may be removed by using a drop or two of tincture of iodine on the wet brush, followed by a drop or two of aromatic spirits of ammonia on the wet brush and then a rinsing with a weak solution of peroxide. An occasional brushing of the teeth with powdered white charcoal, dry, whitens them.

Brand-New Antiquities

By Frederic J. Macdonald

Colorado Springs, Colo.—The great and only industry in Colorado Springs is the entertainment of tourists. A few bricks and brown are made somewhere within the city limits, but such small enterprises fade into insignificance beside the large and highly organized business of selling Nature to the public.

Colorado itself is not spectacular, but it is attractively located at the base of the mountains, is famous for its beautiful climate, and is the most comfortable habitat in the Pike's Peak region, which also includes Colorado City, Manitou, and a vast stretch of gorgeous scenery. Where the original supply of scenery runs short, moreover, a new supply has been provided by various scenic production companies, so that there is enough to keep a sightseer busy as long as his money holds out.

Among the principal points of interest in this region, for example, are the historic ruins of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers, located at Phantom Cliff Cañon, at Manitou. These are not original. In scattering far Southern Colorado, there are now gathering large returns on their investment by exhibiting the new-made ruins at the price of $2.00 a glance.

Upon climbing the steep road leading up the cañon, either by motor, burro or foot, the tourist first beholds an adobe Indian dwelling of the type built by the present-day Pueblo Indians. It consists of two floors, connected not by stairs but by crude wooden ladders. The first floor contains the inevitable curio shop, with some unusually interesting Indian relics, and the second floor is occupied by a Pueblo Indian family, which is employed by the scenic production company to illustrate the atmosphere and amuse the tourists.

Here the visitors are organized into sightseeing parties, if they are not already so organized, and conducted by a guide—a young lady of pedagogical appearance, carrying a small switch for a pointer—to the nearby cliff dwellings, built under the overhanging ledge of Phantom Cliff. There are many curious houses in all, connected with small, crumbling passageways and perforated with tiny, mysterious windows and doors. They are built of stone. According to the guide, the only difference between these modern ruins and the ancient ones is the plaster used on the walls. The ancient used some sort of an adobe mixture for mortar, which could not be analyzed by the reproducers, so they were compelled to use cement.

The Guide Holds Forth
"The cliff dwellers," says the guide, holding up the expedition for a brief historical spiel, "were a prehistoric people whose origin is unknown. They left these traces of their existence in Colorado, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico. Archaeologists have solved many of the leading mysteries concerning this long vanished people, but many baffling features are still to be explained."

"Notice the small size of the doors and windows. These lead us to believe that the cliff dwellers were a pigmy people, probably not more than two and a half or three and a half feet in height—an assumption which has been borne out by several skeletons recently excavated."

"On the wall of this first room, you will see an example of their ancient hieroglyphics. These have never been translated. The rock containing them, by the way, is original, having been brought here with the rest of the materials."

"This," continued the guide, as she led the party through a small passage-way, "is the milling room, where they ground their meal. You will see by the specimens on the floor that they used stone implements, living in the Stone Age. Over here is a niche in the wall, evidently used to hold their implements, showing that they were orderly."

Again the party lowered its heads in proceeding to the next room, which contained one of the cliff-dwellers' curious T-shaped doors.

"The Hopi Indians also use this T-shaped door in their dwellings," explained the guide. "Here is a strange stone box. Scientists think that it was a fireplace, but when it was excavated it contained no signs of fire."

"The next is a Sepulchre, three stories high, where the ancient buried their dead, laying the bodies on their right side. When the third floor, which was used first, was filled with dead and their personal property, the aperture was sealed, and the second floor opened as a receiving morgue. The dry climate and the airtight room are supposed to have had a mummifying effect upon the dead, for many of the cliff dwellers have been excavated in mummy form."

"Next we come to the Balcony House, which is larger than most of the dwellings. When this house was excavated in the Mesa Verde, it contained a rough mattress and a crude form of bedstead. The cliff dwellers were just beginning to make furniture when they became extinct."

The round watch-tower of the Mesa Verde is also a part of the Phantom Cliff ruins, and the Speaker's House has likewise been crowded under the rocky ledge, porch and all. There is also a model of one of the prehistoric storehouses, where the ancients stored their grain.

The Bones of the Ancients
In connection with the ruins is a small museum containing specimens of the cliff dwellers' handwork—their baskets, water-pitchers, sandals, turkey-bone needles, toys and bone buttons much like ours. There is also a mattress made of rushes of the kind that was found in various excavated houses, and a couple of prehistoric skeletons. The latter show the cliff dwellers to have been flat-headed, a state which they achieved by attaching a heavy weight to the back of the head of each infant cliff dweller and keeping it there until the head attained the proper form. They also had flat noses and projecting teeth.

The skeletons in this museum, moreover, are not small, but of goodly size. As a matter of fact, the cliff dwellers were probably about the same size as the modern Pueblos, who are supposed to be their direct descendants. It is true that the two differ in many particulars, one of the most obvious being the fact that most of the present-day Pueblos build their houses of sun-baked bricks, or adobe, whereas the ancients used cut stone. But both are agricultural peoples, both build the same sort of doors and windows—small for defensive purposes and both use the same general form of architecture.

There are, however, 13 different tribes of modern Pueblos, each of which speaks a different language. On their great feast day, which occurs once a year and which is attended by all the tribes, the language spoken is Spanish. The Hopi tribe is believed to have more in common with the cliff dwellers than any of the others.

Moses, the Red Man
The Indians at Phantom Cliff are from the Santa Clara Pueblo. What they think of their ancient ancestors they refuse to say, but they add politely that they like the tourists. The family consists of a man and his squaw and five children, including a young papoose, six months old, who in popularity really outshines the cliff dwellers. All the tourists want to shake the tiny, brown hand, and to photograph him. "Moses," said his mother proudly (the young chief's name is Moses, "have his picture taken one hundred times a day.")

After each sightseeing party has been through the cliff dwellings it is led to the curio shop and shown various strange curios for sale, including some deadly Indian clubs with which the squaws of early days went to visit the local battlefields and kill the wounded. There is also an Indian maiden's wedding dress, made of leather, in which an Indian maiden is occasionally married near the cliff dwelling ruins as a special attraction to visiting tourists.

In the midst of examining these relics, the sightseers were startled by a sudden war whoop, and there on the front walk, just outside the curio shop, were gathered the smaller members of the Indian family, clad in red and green war apparel, feathered head-dresses and moccasins, brandishing tomahawks and capering about in a ferocious fashion. Seated on the doorstep is their father, also much painted and befeathered, beating a tom-tom to their antics. At last, after several rounds of dancing and yelping like coyotes, the children pause, and entering the curio shop, sedately pass their feathered hats to the delighted tourists.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Macdonald, Editor, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Were all the Presidents of the United States married men when elected? R. O. D.

A. Excepting Van Buren, Buchanan and Cleveland, all the Presidents were married at the time of their election.

Q. Has anyone ever climbed to the top of Pike's Peak? F. C. L.

A. One hundred years ago, July 13, Dr. Frank James astonished the world by climbing to the top of Pike's Peak, 14,109 feet above the sea. In April, 1912, a Government war tank attempted to climb the peak, but was blocked by snow drifts. A month later a car, cranked, tractor, hauled up the mountain. Thousands of tourists now ascend the peak every year by auto, on foot, and by rail.

Q. Is there such a thing as a good imitation of wool? H. K.

A. Cellulose extracted from cotton waste is the basis of a new form of artificial wool with which English textile experts are now experimenting. It is claimed that this material takes dye satisfactorily and will wear practically as well as the animal product it replaces.

Q. What is normal temperature? T. M.

A. 98.4 to 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit is considered normal.

Q. What was the Shamrock Battalion? H. L. S.

A. The War Department says that the Shamrock Battalion was the old 69th Regiment of the New York Guards, known as the "Fighting Irish Regiment." This regiment was first organized for battle training in 1861, and saw service during the Spanish American War and on the Mexican border prior to its reorganization as the 158th Infantry Regiment of the Rainbow Division, which went to France and saw considerable service during the World War.

Q. Does the earth appear as a bright or a darkbody when viewed from the moon? B. B.

A. The nights on the moon are brightened by reflecting light from the earth and the earthshine is equal to the light of a dozen of more than a dozen full moons.

Q. Is there any limit to the number of "jet" balls that may be made on one service? R. J. S.

A. Any number of jet balls may be made on a service, and server continues serving in the same court until two faults are made or a good service is delivered.

Stephensville Wedding
An elaborate wedding occurred Wednesday afternoon when Miss Alma Brandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brandt, of Stephensville, became the bride of Leroy Lemke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemke, of Medina. The ceremony took place at two o'clock in the Stephensville Lutheran church with the Rev. Mr. Redlin of Ellington officiating. The bride was preceded up the aisle by little Laura and Carl Brandt as flower-bearers. Miss Helen Brandt, sister of the bride and Miss Lillian Lemke, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids, while William Schultz, uncle of the bride, and Leo Fry, cousin of the groom, were the groomsmen.

The bride was attired in white satin and carried roses.
A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lemke will make their home with the groom's parents on a farm at Medina.

THIS IS A NICE WAY TO LEARN HOW TO SING

Bedford Hills, N. Y. — The young ladies are not studying Greek dancing. Nor are they taking the bare-foot cure. They are studying voice culture. Learning to sing!

They are students at the Bedford Hills voice culture school, Studio Camp, conducted by Madame Scherer, famous French instructor.

The unique feature of the school is that new students are not requested to use their voices for a month or more after they arrive, but are given dancing, jumping and other exercises.

Miss Laura Klumb is again on duty at C. A. Pardee company's store, after a week's vacation at her home at Kaukauna.

Mrs. M. F. Bartou has returned from a six weeks' trip to California and Washington. In the latter state she was the guest of her sister, who resides at Burlington.

Charles D. Thompson, who was injured by a switch engine several weeks ago, was able to sit up for a short time Tuesday for the first time since the accident.

William Storm and N. Brill were fond du Lac visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. George Weber and granddaughter, Rita McKenney, have returned from a nine weeks' visit with friends in Little Falls, Anoka and Minneapolis, Minn., and Hudson, Wis.

Miss Norma Burns left on Wednesday for a visit at Milwaukee.

Clifford Klammer left Tuesday for Duluth, where he intends to remain for two months on account of his health.

Dr. G. M. Cline and Dr. S. C. Kehl of Mercy hospital, Chicago, left for their homes Tuesday after visiting Appleton friends.

Miss Renata Peters and Miss Erna Zumach have returned from a week's outing at Moon's lake, Rhineland.

Miss Laura Zumach, Miss Willie Peters and Miss Edna Lemm of Chicago, expect to remain at the resort for the balance of this week.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR TENNIS MEET

Two Tournaments to Be Conducted by Y. M. C. A. Next Month.

Plans for the city tennis tournament were discussed at a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. tennis committee Tuesday noon. Dates for the title matches were set and sub-committees appointed to arrange the details.

It was decided that titles would be decided in two classes, "A" and "B". The class "A" tournament will be held September 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, while class "B" players will compete September 13 to 15.

Entry blanks will be sent out to all the tennis players of the city whose names can be secured. Players wishing to enter the tournament who have not received invitations or entry blanks may apply at the Y. M. C. A.

A junior tournament for boys under 15 will be conducted September 7 to 10. Boys may enter either tournament or both if they choose, the only difference being the entry fee.

All games will be played on the Y. M. C. A. courts, which will be thrown open during the two weeks of the tournament. Competition will be on an elimination basis, losers in all but the semi-final matches to be eliminated.

Medals will be awarded winners of first, second and third places.

H. H. Pelkey heads the committee on publicity and invitations which was appointed Tuesday. Other members are R. J. Meyer, Alfred Galpin, Jr., H. E. Frame and the committee.

Prizes include A. D. Weller, William McGinnis, and R. H. Starkey.

OAT CROP RUNS SIXTY BUSHELS TO THE ACRE

Threshing crews report a record crop of oats this year. Hartsborn and Schroeder find that it runs about 60 bushels to the acre, which surpasses all records. The usual crop ranges from 40 to 50 bushels.

They state that wheat and barley will not average very high this year. The crop appeared to be abundant, but the threshing process reveals lack of proper filling of kernels. This is blamed to weather conditions.

Threshing is in full swing in all parts of the county. One crew is averaging 2,150 bushels a day. Most of the help has been supplied from the farms, as the usual laborers demanded too high a wage this year.

APPLETON MAN FIGURES IN MIXUP OF "SMITHS"

Confusion among the many Smiths in the world sometimes brings profit as well as trouble. This was the case with Frank H. Smith, who recently moved from Green Bay to Appleton.

Mr. Smith was former secretary of the Green Bay Chamber of Commerce and had been mentioned as a candidate for president of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries, which recently met in Madison.

The office was given to Edward R. Smith, secretary of the Oshkosh chamber.

Frank Smith's friends on the Minneapolis Tribune, where he formerly resided, heard that a Mr. Smith had been chosen and immediately resorted to a photograph and published it with a long article lauding the good fortune of their former resident. Letters of congratulation started to arrive addressed to "Frank Smith, Oshkosh," and the Appleton man is keenly enjoying the fruits of the confusion.

APPLETON MAN BADLY INJURED AT MENASHA

Rudolph Hermann, 478 Walter Ave., was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon while working as a fireman for the W. T. L. H. & P. company on the Trego street bridge in Menasha. Mr. Hermann was repairing a trolley wire and was standing on the roof of a car when his body came in contact with a wire carrying 600 volts.

After first aid had been administered at the office of the John Sarnace Paper company, the workman was rushed to the Theda Clark hospital. It is believed he will recover.

Announcements have been received in Appleton of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Price at Marion, Ohio. Mr. Price was formerly an instructor in the physics department at Lawrence College during the period of the S. A. T. C.

Mrs. George Brenner has returned to her home at Chicago after visiting for several days with Mr. and Mrs. George Lavin.

Confessions of a Bride

THE BOOK OF ANN
The Girls "Demand" Bob's Permission for Bobbing My Hair

as at a signal from Deborah, who is their leader, they danced in a wavy Greek circle around him.

Bob gave me a quick glance as I tripped past him. It worried me for he can get as hard as nails in about half a second, and his look said to my experienced eye that I was much to blame for letting him in for a very embarrassing situation.

Fortunately, at the moment, Deborah Burns, as spokesman for the crowd, addressed my husband thus:

"Mr. Bob Lorimer, we demand that you take your wife to study the various looks on exhibition. 'Hammered' He raised his hands to the level of his head. Then to me, 'come along, Jane! Have it over with!'"

At this, Ann flew at him, put her arms around his neck, in her supreme affected innocence and deposited a kiss on his lips.

"I could have slapped her!" He was my maid! Even if modern domestic custom does permit brothers-and-sisters-in-law to share certain endearments—I could have slapped Ann Lorimer before them all!

She was showing off! She was trying to prove to the girls that she had her little particular brand of rights and privileges connected with the only man in the crowd—a man who certainly looked particularly fascinating that morning.

(To Be Continued)

The Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Droegkamp, Mrs. Diete and Mr. and Mrs. George Muehl visited the Rev. and Mrs. B. O. Meschman at Neenah Tuesday.

Word has been received from John J. Sherman, president of the Citizens National bank, that he has reached New York and expects to return home the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Preston and guests of St. Ignace spent Sunday at Waverly Beach with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pierce.

GOING MAD? HERE'S A CURE

New York.—Are you going mad? If you are, go to the country once a week. That's the advice of Miss Martha Hedman, great Swedish actress, who says there would be fewer nervous wrecks in this rushing land if everybody spent one day a week away from everybody, under the trees. See that. And some day, she says, she's going to live permanently on a farm.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE AFTER LONG ABSENCE

E. C. Schulz of Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schulz, 1023 Sixth street, for the first time in sixteen years. He was born and reared here but hardly recognized the city on account of the many changes that have taken place since his last visit. For the last eight years he has been employed in the plant of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper company which has lately built an additional mill in Canada. Mr. Schulz is accompanied by his son Kenneth and daughter Evangeline and expects to remain here over Sunday, at which time a family reunion is to be held, the first since his last visit. The family consists of the parents, four sons, six daughters, and several grandchildren.

BUSINESS WORLD IS MORE CAUTIOUS

Federal Reserve Bank Statement Avers Extravagance Is on the Wane.

By United Press Leased Wire. Chicago.—Extravagance in the working class is on the wane and a feeling of caution rules all business transactions because it is felt that a drop in prices is inevitable, according to the monthly statement of the federal reserve bank here today. The bank public, the statement says, is checking the extravagances which have made "bonanzas" hitherto for industries and trades catering to popular desires and needs, regardless of prices. "Caution rules in business in the seventh district," the statement said. "The producer is cautious for the very good reason that mistakes cannot be made in high priced labor and raw materials without loss of both price and profits. Middlemen are cautious because the retailers are cautious because the retailers are taking frequent soundings because they have sensed a change in the popular purchasing power."

The key to the entire situation, it is declared, is a "fear of liquid capital and restriction of bank credit."

This "restriction" resulted in a shifting of burdens and responsibility. Sales dropped and goods piled up in warehouses. These will be sold at a loss eventually it was predicted.

The labor situation has improved, though there is still some shortage the statement declared. The business crisis continues acute.

WHOLESALE LIQUOR TRADE NOT ENTIRELY EXTINGUISHED

John Gerrits, wholesale liquor dealer, says that many people coming across this business card in the telephone directory or elsewhere, have considered it a relic of olden times. Instead, it represents a business which became an actuality on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Gerrits is licensed to sell all kinds of liquors to all druggists north of Milwaukee who possess a license to sell it at retail. He has possessed the license for two weeks, but did not open business until his entire stock was at hand.

Tuesday morning, fifty cases of liquor reached Mr. Gerrits, and he is now ready for business. Only one drug store in Appleton possesses a license to buy from Mr. Gerrits.

J. E. Woehler and family of Appleton and John Woehler of Oshkosh are on an auto tour to Shawano and vicinity for a few days.

ALLEGED WIFE SLAYER REACHES SOUTH AMERICA

Rio Janeiro.—The British steamer Dryden arrived here last night with Eugene Leroy, wanted on connection with the New York-Detroit "trunk murder mystery," under arrest. The body of a woman, later identified as Mrs. Eugene Leroy was found in a trunk in New York, from which it had been shipped from Detroit. Her husband, suspected of the crime, was hunted for several weeks and was last reported in New York. The Dryden left New York for Rio Janeiro on Aug. third.

Hidden in Gotham

New York.—Eugene Leroy, arrested in Rio de Janeiro today on a charge of murdering his wife in Detroit and then cramming her body in a trunk which was shipped to New York, was in hiding here most of the time police of the country were searching for him, it was said today.

Pouce pointed out that Leroy sailed from New York on Aug. 3 which was ten days after the discovery of his wife's mutilated body in a warehouse here.

An effort was being made to hasten the extradition of Leroy. Arrangements were being made for the cooperation of Detroit and New York police in his reception here and for his transportation to Detroit.

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE GETS RESIGNATION

The county, state road and bridge committee met at the courthouse Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of taking action on the resignation of A. G. Brusevich, county highway commissioner, who enters upon his new duties as manager of the Reliance Motor Truck company on Sept. 1. So far as is known there are three candidates in the field. Several other matters also came before the meeting.

GETS DIVORCE WHEN HUSBAND RUNS AWAY

Mrs. Cora Fulcer was granted a divorce from her husband Charles Fulcer in municipal court Wednesday morning on the grounds of desertion and non-support. Fulcer left home about four years ago and since that time has been making his home at Green Bay. The couple has six children, all of whom are of age, except the youngest boy.

MASTER LOVER GETS IN BAD WITH THE POLICE

By United Press Leased Wire. Chicago.—With the arrest of Leroy H. Simmonds, forty, mail clerk, here today on a charge of stealing $6,000 worth of bonds from the mails, authorities believed they held a "master lover."

According to police, Simmonds has two wives, one in Wisconsin, another in Kansas, is engaged to marry another and lives with a fourth.

Authorities say Simmonds married a girl in Kansas in June and on Aug. 16, he married a girl in Wisconsin.

When arrested he was with a girl by the name of Alice Wright, to whom he said he was engaged. At his home another woman was found who Simmonds had declared was his wife. Names of the girls he married in Kansas and Wisconsin were withheld.

THIRD PARTY HEAD ATTACKS LEAGUE

Christensen Avers America's Relations With World Are None Too Secure.

By United Press Leased Wire. Aberdeen, S. D.—Farley P. Christensen, labor candidate for president of the United States, in a speech here today before thousands of farmers declared that "the successor of President Wilson will receive from his hands a bankrupt foreign policy."

He declared that the friendship of France can be permanently relied upon but added that "our relations with Great Britain, Russia, China and Latin America are not foolproof."

Touting the league of nations issue Christensen said: "The farmer-labor party favors a league of the people of the world for the preservation of international peace but said the United States should not undertake to defend and uphold the treaty of Versailles. He denounced President Wilson's foreign diplomacy, charging that the democratic administration had 'failed to lay the foundations of a genuine friendship with the British empire, had made war on Russia, had abandoned China to the mercies of Japan, had slighted Latin-America and threatened Mexico with war.'"

Genuine friendship between Great Britain and the United States is impossible until the Irish question is settled, continued Christensen, adding "the farm labor party pledges itself to employ every means of peaceful pressure to root out Great Britain to grant the just demands of the Irish people." Christensen declared in favor of peace with Germany by congressional resolution, saying "now that Prussian imperialism is dead, America and Germany should be able to re-establish at once their friendly relations."

NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE HEAD SUED FOR $5,000

Fargo, N. D.—James A. Waters, former manager of the Bank of North Dakota, is suing A. C. Townley, president of the National Non-partisan league, for $5,000 he alleges Townley promised him as a yearly salary for handling an alleged interest for Townley in the "United States seal trust." Waters asserts the company owns 22,400 acres of Florida land.

Waters' suit declares Townley's stock is held in his name and that a verbal agreement to that effect was entered into at the time Townley was adjudicated bankrupt, following a flax crop failure in western North Dakota.

Foresters Meet

The Appleton court of the Catholic Order of Foresters held a regular business meeting at Foresters' home Tuesday evening. The business meeting was followed by an important session of the side rank of Foresters, at which it was decided to discontinue meetings of the side rank, subject to the call of the president.

During Winter Months Much of the Time is Spent at Home

With a hint of winter just over the hills we remember the snow-bound days and evenings spent at home—the cheerful and pleasant atmosphere of the house when the out-of-doors is closed to us.

How little the most of us realize the importance of artistic curtains, rugs or draperies in making the home a pleasant place to live. We know and have worked wonders with many homes through a touch here and there.

TRACTOR DIRECTOR IS OUT WITH ALL FACTS

St. Paul Man Says Tanlac Entirely Relieved Him of Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism — Gains Fourteen Pounds.

"I can certainly testify to the value of Tanlac, because it has helped me so much," said J. F. McThorne, a director of the American Tractor Company, residing at 415 Blair street, Saint Paul, Minn.

"During the past three years, I suffered from the worst kind of stomach trouble, the mucus and a tired feeling in my legs. I had scarcely any appetite at all, and even what little I did manage to eat didn't agree with me. Gas would form on my stomach, bloating me up and causing me to suffer terribly. The circulation in my hands was so poor that my fingers would go to sleep and remain numb for two or three hours.

"After reading a number of statements from people who had found relief in Tanlac, I decided to try it myself. My appetite began to pick up from the very start, and my stomach never gives me a particle of trouble. The rheumatism is all gone, and I no longer have that tired feeling in my legs. I have actually gained fourteen pounds in weight, and am feeling just fine in every way."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John E. Vogel, F. O. Brown, Shocron, Dr. J. M. Sattler, Bear Creek, H. E. Abend, Dale.

STATE BOARD PROBES GRADE CROSSING HERE

The Wisconsin Railroad commission has sent copies of the application of the city of Appleton for separation of street grade from the grade of the tracks of the Northwestern Railway company and the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company to the attorneys of these companies, and has given them further notice that after the expiration of ten days from the date of service of the notice and the complaint that the railroad commission would proceed to investigate the matter. The notice concerns the Second avenue railroad and interurban crossing where it is proposed to have a subway constructed. A copy was received by Theodore Berg, city attorney, Tuesday morning.

They Are Your Neighbors

These folks are your neighbors. They work for the telephone company. They are regular people, just like you, your friends and family.

They eat food, wear clothes, live in houses, talk, laugh, sing, cry, get peevish (and get over it), enjoy the movies and home-made pies, just like you.

These folks are trying hard to give you the best telephone service in the world. They take pride in their work and in their company; but sometimes, when they hear you complaining about paying a few dollars a year for telephone service, they become worried and wonder how they are going to make ends meet — for they know their wages depend on what you pay for your telephone.

Sometimes some of you forget that the telephone company is made up of folks who are just like you.

The more loyal support you give the telephone the better service it can give you.

BADGER CITIES STRIVE TO MEET HOUSE SHORTAGE

Secretary Corbett Finds Janesville and Beloit Plans Successful.

APPLETON IS LAGGING Building Should Be Done on Large Scale. Properly Financed.

Appleton seems to be doing the least of any city of its size to meet the housing needs, according to Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. He spent some time at Janesville and Beloit studying their housing propositions while on his way home from Madison, Wis., to attend the state meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

He found that Janesville had three organizations which were putting up houses. A housing corporation had been formed by the business men and made good progress for a time but was finally retarded in its work by lack of capital. The General Motors company then took it up under the name of the Modern Housing corporation with a national expert, Louis E. Hall in charge.

Mr. Hall explained that 103 houses had been completed to date and gave their cost in detail. The total expenditure was $374,150, or an average of $3,700. About $500 had to be added to this for the lots, which were 50 by 125 feet, and had cement sidewalks, paved streets, trees and shrubbery. The same houses built now would cost about 10 per cent more. Mr. Hall estimated, because of the advance in materials and labor. Mr. Hall promised to come to Appleton in the fall and explain Janesville's methods to the Chamber of Commerce directors.

Beloit Has Two Plans.

Beloit has found to have two housing organizations. The Fairbanks company took the initiative to put one proposition through. An attractive addition was purchased in a desirable location. Houses were put up with various designs. Trees, shrubbery, green lawns, cement walks and drives and other improvements were made as soon as the houses were built. The new district is now one of the prettiest in the city and has increased the value of the adjoining land.

One house of the Donaldson type was under construction at Beloit. It was concrete from roof to basement, with cement floors, walls, stairways and other features. Concrete blocks faced to resemble brick made it look like a genuine brick structure. It was said to be cheaper and better than the frame dwellings.

Mr. Corbett also secured valuable data through the housing discussions conducted at Madison by the American City Bureau. The bureau had sent out 800 questionnaires to cities of the United States asking details of housing plans and the results.

No Individual Building.

It was found that individual building had almost died a natural death within the past year; that building should be done in a big way or not at all; that no less than 10 per cent should be paid down by the purchaser. The plan of taking up second mortgages, also was found unsatisfactory.

Housing corporations properly financed seemed to be the successful solution. It was made clear through the findings that asking details of housing before anything else is contemplated. The construction should then be studied. The corporation should know exactly what it wanted before a start was made. Capital sufficient to cover all demands should then be raised and the work could then proceed unhampered.

Many other suggestions were brought out, which Mr. Corbett made note of for consideration when the question comes up locally. It was stated that no individual contractor could successfully undertake such a contract; it must go to those who are accustomed to house building on a large scale. Units from 10 to 15 should be built at one time in order to make it profitable.

GRAND CHUTE GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED

Christina Tiedt Leaves Home Mysteriously and Is Sought by Police.

Christina Tiedt, 21 years old, daughter of Fred Tiedt, town of Grand Chute, mysteriously disappeared from her home late Saturday evening. Police are working on the case.

The young lady spent the evening with Walter Techlin, a Grand Chute young man, with whom she has been company for several years. She was to be married to him this fall. They reached home in Techlin's automobile shortly after 12 o'clock and sat in the machine talking for a while.

municipal department there. It has standpipes all through the buildings beside the hydrants outside. There is also a steam fire engine and two reels of hose so that distant points may be reached easily.

Pumps capable of supplying six to eight one and one-eighth inch streams, have been installed at the Kimberly and Niagara mills. The former has two with 1,000 gallons capacity each and the latter one with 1,500 gallons capacity. Both mills also have standpipes holding 50,000 gallons of water. Sprinkler systems also protect all plants.

George P. McGowan, chief of the Appleton fire department, has had a large part in the training of the men of each company. He has instructed them how to get hose to any part of the building quickly, whether upstairs or in the basement, how to back up hose with pressure on it, how to couple it quickly, and how to meet the emergencies that arise. His recommendations have helped the Kimberly-Clark company make its system efficient.

"The Kimberly-Clark company has done wonderful work in equipping its plants for fire prevention," said the chief. "They have provided good hose, ladders and everything needed to meet the ordinary emergencies. Their plants might be considered one of the best risks in the country, as no fire would have much of a chance to spread unless it were caused by an explosion that might cripple the protection system."

APPLETON DAY AT FAIR IS OBSERVED BY MANY

More than 25 cars carrying nearly 200 Appleton people left the Ononda and Washington street corners at one o'clock bound for the Summer fair. They all wore hat bands with the wording: "I'm glad I'm here, Appleton Chamber of Commerce."

Other families left in the morning by automobile to observe Appleton day at the fair. The Automobile included city officials, Chamber of Commerce members and others who wanted to assist in helping Appleton make a showing at the neighbor city.

WOMEN WANT DOPE ON FRIENDS' VOTE

Real Interest Is Being Taken by Newly Enfranchised Voters.

That the women of Appleton intend to take an active part in the present political campaign is manifested by the number of inquiries at the city hall. One lady wanted to get a line on the Republicans and Democrats in the different wards and was surprised to find that no such record was on file. Another wanted to register her name for primary election at once as she expected to be out of town on registration day. Some of the ladies have endeavored to learn whether their friends intended to line up with the Republicans or Democrats, but have not always been successful in getting them to commit themselves.

Ladies should bear in mind that registration day is Tuesday, August 31. On that date they can register at the usual polling places any time between nine o'clock in the morning and eight o'clock in the evening. They should register in the morning if possible as the election boards are liable to be swamped with work later in the day.

enter the house alone. Techlin offered to go with her, but she finally declined and started for the door herself. Techlin drove away and she has not been seen or heard from since. Her parents stated that she did not enter the house at all. She took nothing with her except the clothing she had on.

The young lady made no mention of any intention to leave, and let no clue by which she could be traced. The matter has been placed in the hands of the Appleton police and Chief Prim and Detective Duvall are working on the case.

WILL "SELL" TRADE SCHOOL TO PUBLIC

Extensive Advertising Campaign for Vocational School Is Planned.

Alive to the advantages to be derived from advertising, members of the school board of the vocational school at their first meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon decided upon an extensive campaign for their evening classes.

School work for the coming year was outlined and will be ready for publication later in the week. School will open Tuesday, Sept. 7. Those who wish to enter the evening classes will be given an opportunity to register the last week in September.

W. S. Ford, director, submitted his report of the conference at Menomonee, Wis., from which he has just returned.

The vocational school is the only school in the city so far as is known that will have the same corps of teachers as last year. Mrs. Wood, formerly Miss Meta Carpenter, who was stenographer in the office of the director for several years, and who resigned at the close of school last June, will return.

Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Without Plenty of Iron in Your Blood You Don't Get the Strength and Nourishment Out of the Food You Eat.

When over-work, lack of sleep, improper food and impure air sap the iron from your blood and make you feel weak, nervous, irritable and out-of-sorts, it is important that you should at once get more iron into your blood. Without iron the blood loses the power to carry food into living tissue and therefore nothing that you eat does you the proper amount of good because you don't get the full strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system. Like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. Because of this scanty circulation of the blood, nerves and organs often become weakened, tired-out, nervous and run-down and frequently develop all sorts of symptoms. But the moment organic iron—supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear in most cases, the flesh becomes firmer, the muscles get back their strength and the roses of health bloom in cheeks that were pale and sickly looking.

No matter what other so-called remedies you may have tried, if you are not strong, vigorous, hearty and well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next, take two five-grain tablets of ordinary iron from three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. You can obtain Nutrient Iron from your druggist on the distinct understanding that if you are not fully satisfied your money will be refunded.

Anthony McClone, of Deer Creek, assemblyman of the second district of Outagamie county, was in Appleton on business Tuesday.

WANT INDUSTRIAL SURVEY OF CITY

It Will Be Urged as a Major Objective of the Chamber of Commerce.

An industrial survey of Appleton will be recommended as a part of the Chamber of Commerce program for the coming season, according to the decision of the industrial committee at its meeting Tuesday evening. The committee felt that it could best determine Appleton's industrial needs by this method.

The committee will try to determine through the survey what industries Appleton needs, what factory sites are available, and what assistance can be rendered plants already here. They believe it may be possible to locate industries here that supply the present mills with materials they are obliged to send elsewhere for.

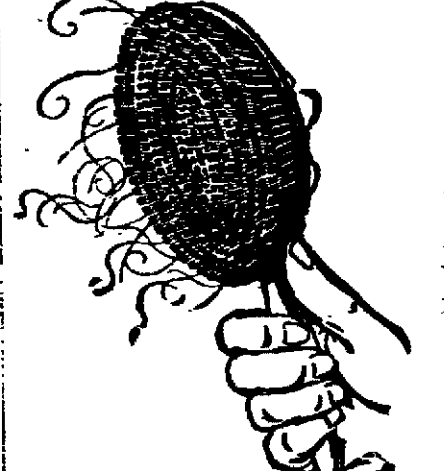

The committee also took steps to become fully organized for fall work and discussed other matters of importance. The major endeavor will be to bring about a survey, however.

The publicity and convention committee of the chamber has already mapped out its program to advertise Appleton through comprehensive literature. The retail committee expects to get into shape early in September. Each committee is allowed its proportionate share of one-fourth of the dues for conducting its work. This gives each a fund of $400 or $500 a year for its use.

NEW VOTERS WILL GO TO SCHOOL SATURDAY

The Civics department of the Appleton Woman's Club is making arrangements to have meetings in all the public schools a fine city Saturday afternoon for the purpose of instructing newly franchised women voters of Appleton in the art of registering and voting at the primaries.

After the long struggle for woman suffrage, the civics department feels that it is the duty of every loyal woman to avail herself of the newly acquired privileges an exercises her right to vote on all questions. In order to vote intelligently it is necessary for every woman to make a point of informing herself thoroughly upon the questions of the day and the political platforms of the candidates for office.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE STILL NEAR SEYMOUR

BROWNS WIN TWO GAMES FROM MACKS

Mackmen Lose Both Games of Double Header on Home Diamond.

Philadelphia—St. Louis won two games on Tuesday, by the same score, 1 to 0. Philadelphia was unable to score in either of the games. In the first game, the visitors' pitchers, E. Rommel and Perry, though not hard hit, yielded hits when they were on the mound. The St. Louis team was held hitless by the St. Louis pitcher, who pitched a perfect game after hitting St. Louis in twenty-four consecutive outs.

Hodgers Lose to Pirates
Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland on Tuesday, 4 to 3. Cleveland was hit hard but four double plays helped him. Grimes' wild pitch with the bases full in the first inning scored two runs. Kilduff was hit in the face by a batted ball in the eighth and McCabe took his place.

Tigers Win Series
New York—Detroit made its farewell appearance of the season at the Polo grounds on Tuesday, defeating New York 5 to 3 and winning the series three games to one. Three of Shawkey's passes in the first and third innings were turned into runs. The Tigers failed to get a hit off Shawkey after the third. New York had plenty of opportunity to score, but effective pitching by Ayers kept the Yankees away from the plate.

Cuba Nose Out Win
Chicago—Chicago nosed out Boston on Tuesday 3 to 2. Boston made 12 hits off Alexander, but counted only twice. Chicago hit Fillingim eleven times, beat's double and Herzog's single in the ninth with one out produced the winning run.

Giants are Defeated
St. Louis—St. Louis hit four of which did not go out of the infield in the third inning, coupled with Doyle's error and an infield out gave St. Louis five runs and a lead which New York was unable to overcome on Tuesday. The final score was 6 to 4.

Cleveland Loses Again
Boston—By winning, 7 to 2 on Tuesday, Boston took four games of the five game series from Cleveland. Boston smashed its attack on Clark, while Bush kept Cleveland's hits scattered until the eighth.

FIGHT FOR FOURTH PLACE ON SUNDAY

Victory Over Kaukauna Will Send Local Club Up the Percentage Ladder.

Appleton has a splendid chance of getting out of fifth place in the Fox River valley league by defeating Kaukauna here next Sunday. If New London succeeds in defeating Menasha the same afternoon and Appleton wins here it will have climbed into third place which would not be a bad showing for one day.

Teams in the Valley league are closely bunched behind Oshkosh. Every game makes big changes in team standings, indicating that the clubs are so close together that it is hard to get decimal points between them.

The feature game Sunday will be between New London and Menasha at Menasha. Those clubs are only two points apart, with New London holding the edge. If the Edison win they will almost clinch their hold on second place.

No word has been received here from Hank Schultz, the Milwaukee hurler who was injured at New London last Sunday. The lack of news is regarded here as an indication that he will be ready to take up the burden against the Electric city team again next Sunday.

THREE AMERICAN BOXERS WIN IN OLYMPIC MEET

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Licensed Wire
Antwerp—American boxers and three olympic championships to their credit today.

Frankie Di Gennaro, New York, won the flyweight title, Sam Mosberg, New York, won the lightweight title and Ted Egan, Yale University, won the light heavyweight title in the final bouts last night. The complete results were:

Flyweight: Di Gennaro defeated Peterson, Denmark.

Lightweight: Walker, South Africa, defeated Graham, Canada.

Lightweight: Mosberg, America, defeated Johansen, Denmark.

Welterweight: Schneider, Canada, defeated Ireland, England.

Middleweight: Millin, England, defeated Prudhomme, Canada.

Light heavyweight: Egan, America, defeated Sorsdal, Norway.

Heavyweight: Rawson, England, defeated Petersen, Norway.

All bouts were three minute rounds each.

Four deeds were recorded at the office of register of deeds Tuesday morning. They were: Kimberly Clark company to Martin Wisnans, lot in Kimberly, consideration private, Ellen Brill, now Ellen Giesbers, to Anna Brill three lots in Kaukauna, consideration private. Herman Stoffen to William Meyer two lots in Sixth ward consideration private. Louis Trudgway, Jr. to John L. DeBart two lots in Kaukauna consideration private.

Harry Kahler has left for Milwaukee where he plans to accept a position.

MISKE'S CHANCES ARE GROWING MUCH BRIGHTER

Beaton Harbor, Mich.—The long-ajoyed he has taken since he won the championship from Jess Willard and the increasing optimistic reports from Daily Miske's camp are causing much speculation among the followers of Jack Dempsey here as to his chances with Mike in their ten round swiftest Labor Day.

That Miske's chances are not taken so lightly as they appeared to be several weeks ago was indicated today when it was learned that a hurry up call has been dispatched to Pittsburgh for Harry Greb, the steel city milt welder, to assist in training Dempsey. Greb, it was said, was expected to arrive tomorrow or Friday to assume the role of chief sparring partner to the champion.

Dempsey is training carefully for the fight. He boxes eight rounds daily with four sparring partners and does a long stretch of road work.

Miske is in training at Eastman Springs, a mile from here. He has four sparring partners and has forced one to leave camp. He let loose a right for a knockout by accident, he says.

LEAGUE LEADERS GET A BRIEF REST TODAY

(By L. R. Blanchard)
By United Press Licensed Wire

Chicago—American league fans faced a second unhappy day today. With the big three taking three separate but emphatic trimmings yesterday, only one of the trio was to play today.

Cleveland had the chance to start the comeback which Tris Speaker's backers are looking for. They believed the slump which followed the tragic loss of a stellar player would be shaken off when the team met the lagging tota from Philadelphia. Yesterday Cleveland lost to Boston, the fourth loss in five starts there. The Yanks toppled before Detroit and the White Sox were mauled by Washington.

In the National league, Cincinnati clambered upward yesterday by winning from Philadelphia while Pittsburgh beat Brooklyn and St. Louis rammed the Giant craft. The same teams were to mix today.

TWO TEAMS LEAVE FACTORY LEAGUE

Northern Boiler Works and Appleton Woolen Teams Withdraw.

Two teams were given permission to withdraw from the interfactory baseball league at a meeting of the league's board of control Tuesday evening. The teams were those representing the Northern Boiler works and the Appleton Woolen Mills.

All other teams signified their intention of playing out the schedule as it stands to date. Games on the schedule with the two withdrawing teams will be forfeited.

Notes of the Appleton Coated Paper company, Gregory of the Interlakes, Inc. of the Valley Iron Works, and E. H. Starkey, Y. M. C. A. physical director, were named as a committee to arrange for trophies. It has been decided to award trophies for first, second and third places, on account of
